Home improvement, senior citizen jobs studied by 4 cities

A program of proposed public improvements for which Quad-City municipalities will seek their share of a $7 million grant expected by Madison County under the federal Community Development Act will be drafted this week for presentation to the county's Community Development Advisory Committee.

The $7 million is scheduled for distribution over the next three years for use in projects mapped by cities and villages with the county. The county's development committee will determine the priority of the proposed projects and allot the Madison County funds accordingly.

Plans to complete a program of projects sponsored by Granite City, Madison, Venice and Ponton Beach, which make up District Two of the Madison County phase of the Community Development Plan, were finalized Thursday in a meeting of officials from the four municipalities in the office of Mayor Paul Schuler in Granite City.

Mayor Schuler said that projects to be sponsored by Granite City will be considered in a meeting tonight in his office of the recently appointed Granite City Community Development Committee. Projects considered on a joint basis with the other three Quad-City municipalities will be a combined $7,000 fund as the local share of a "Senior Aide" program sponsored by Belleville Area College. In this program, area communities would employ senior citizens in civic and community jobs.

Venice and Madison have proposed using part of their funds, in a program with the Madison County Housing Authority, for loans to citizens for the improvement of property.

Schuler said the Granite City advisory committee is not expected to include a proposal for establishment of an incinerator to dispose of garbage and trash in accordance with a proposal mentioned earlier by William "Mike" Ebersoldt, mayor of Venice.

He said Granite City last year completed a new three-year contract for disposal of garbage and trash by Milam-East Corp. at a cost of about $170 per month for each household.

"I don't believe we could come up with any plan for garbage disposal that would be any cheaper than that," the mayor said.

The Community Development Program calls for federal grants of $1 million to Madison County for the first year, and $3 million each for the second and third years.

"This means the fund allocation to the Quad-City municipalities for the first year will be about $220,000," Schuler explained, noting that "the four cities will have to finance their first-year projects within this amount."

Local man shot near Belleville

Michael R. Stechmesser, 27, of 280 Holiday Mobile Home Park, State Aid Route 36, was reported recuperating today at Belleville Memorial Hospital after being shot in the abdomen north of Belleville about 11:30 p.m. Thursday.

Stechmesser told police he had been visiting friends in Belleville and was hitchhiking home when a white or yellow car stopped, a passenger got out of the car and asked him if he wanted a ride and the man then displayed a pistol and shot Stechmesser.

The shooting occurred near Route 151 and Old Caseyville Road.

SPRAYED WITH MACE

Clyde Mize Jr., 2010 Dewey Ave., reported at 11:20 a.m. Sunday that a man had sprayed mace in his eyes while Mize was sitting in his truck, parked in the 2500 block of East 23rd St. He said the man approached and first asked him to fight. When Mize refused, the man sprayed the mace on him, he reported.

An alleged threat by a member of Governor Daniel Walker's administration to block a state civic center exposition hall at SIUE resulted in fiery reply on the Illinois House floor by new State Rep. Joe E. Lucco (D, Edwardsville).

The three-day speaker battle was adjourned after 64 ballots early Saturday to be resumed

'The other local Democratic representative, Horace L. Calvo of Granite City, also has been in the limelight as a potential compromise nominee for speaker of the House.

The old garage was acquired by the levee district in the early 1940s from the Key Co., then an East St. Louis industry, for $100,000.

According to Ebersoldt, the damage caused by the railroad explosion damaged the present building beyond repair. The levee board, he said, has been negotiating a settlement with the railroad and noted that he, Robinson and Scoville had agreed such damages should amount to at least $200,000. The other two members of the levee board, Romel Wilton and Charles Meyers, both of East St. Louis, have proposed settling the damages for $75,000 to $100,000.

Ebersoldt said that Scoville's support of the proposal to build a new garage in Madison County and abandoning the old garage gives the plan the support of three members, which constitutes a quorum and a majority vote on the five-man board of trustees.

The design and estimated cost of a new garage building will depend upon the eventual settlement of damages by the railroad, Ebersoldt said.

The Ponton Beach Village Board Thursday night voted to annex five parcels of property into the village.

Annexed were Pat's Mobile Home Park on Division Street and a house in the park, plus the homes of Chieff, Police Rosewell Bennett Jr. and Lynda Bennett in the Long Lake Shores Acres, Park Lane and the homes of Edward and Betty Nida, Harlan and Pearl Ellis and Duane and Janice Blaskey, all in the 3800 block of Central Lane.

The board agreed to utilize an employ obtained free under the Manpower Development Grant program as a police dispatcher. She is Sandra Meyer, 525 English Place, Mitchell.

An insurance change for the village employs group plan was voted, discontinuing maternity benefits and applying the excess premium to increased disability benefits and hospital room rate benefits.

Permission was granted to Chief Bennett to attend the annual membership meeting of the Illinois Association of Chiefs is to participate in distribution of funds from a proposed Community Development Grant.

The trustees were informed in a letter from the state Department of Transportation that its motor fuel tax checks will increase as a result of the recent village census which increased the population figure for the village to 3,192 persons.

Permission was granted to Chief Bennett to attend the annual membership meeting of the Illinois Association of Chiefs

Children rescued

A Madison man, alerted in the middle of the night about a fire in a neighbor's home, responded quickly and pulled two children, aged two and three years, from the home at 3:25 a.m. Friday.

Fire broke out in the home occupied by Mrs. Nancy Shumate, 2012 Harris St., Madison.

Mrs. Shumate awakened to find flames and smoke, and ran from the residence to obtain help; she ran to the home of James Hutchinson, 2008 Harris St., the owner of the burning house, and requested assistance, authorities related.

Hutchinson went into the burning home and, when firemen arrived, he was assisting the children out a window. They were not hurt.

Faulty electrical wiring was believed to have been the cause of the blaze. The extent of the loss has not been determined.

Trust Bank confident in meeting challenges of '75

E. A. Karandjeff, president of the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, has announced the election of new officers and the promotion of other officers of the bank. The elections and promotions were made last week at the bank's annual stockholders' meeting.

New officers elected were Miss Jacklyn Willaredt, Mrs. Clara Parker and Ernest A. Karandjeff Jr. as assistant cashiers. Officers promoted were Anthony J. Zedolek, from assistant vice-president to vice-president, and Robert J. Hildebrand, from trust officer to vice-president and trust officer.

Miss Willaredt has been employed at the bank 22 years and presently manages the general bookkeeping department.

Mrs. Parker has been with the bank 15 years as a commercial teller.

Karandjeff has a 10-year association in all departments of the bank.

Directors re-elected were Dale Arnette, Homer Huber, Ernest A. Karandjeff, Henry D. Karandjeff, Karl Kirchhoff, Carl E. Mathias, Thomas R. Remington and Milford D. Walston.

Officers re-elected were Henry D. Karandjeff, chairman; Ernest A. Karandjeff, president and trust officer; Allen L. Jesse, executive vice-president; John L. McDonald Jr., vice-president and cashier; Barry Loman, vice-president; John J. Polson, vice-president; Thomas J. Killoren, assistant vice-president; Robert Dietrich, assistant vice-president; William C. Evans, assistant cashier; Wesley D. Parrish, assistant cashier, and Paul Niles, auditor.

President Karandjeff noted that 1975 marked the bank's 65th year of service to the community.

"From a very modest beginning in 1910, Granite City Trust has grown to become one of the leading financial institutions in the area, with current assets in excess of $30,000,000," he said.

This exceptional growth for the bank can be attributed to two basic areas: Our employees who, through their dedicated efforts and community service, have exemplified the bank's 65-year motto of "Your Friendly Bank." And our customers who, through their loyalty and support, have made it possible for us to become a full service bank.

Karandjeff added: "For additional customer benefit, deposits at the bank are now insured to $40,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. This, combined with an increase of $966,000 in capital funds, provides our depositors with maximum protection.

The previous year also marked a good year for stockholders as the bank declared a 100 per cent stock dividend. The number of outstanding shares was increased from 60,000 to 120,000 and the amount of capital stock from $600,000 to $1,200,000. At the end of 1974, capital accounts and reserves exceeded $4,700,000.

Karandjeff reviewed the operations of the bank's new data-processing department. He said it has achieved its objective of providing better customer service through computerized records.

Attention also was called to the bank's remodeling program, which gives the lobby a brighter, warmer atmosphere.

In summation, Karandjeff said, "Although the national scene was disturbing in the past year, it was a most successful year for Granite City Trust."

"We, at the bank, have every confidence in the ability of our area's businesses, industries, and city administration to meet the challenges of the coming year. And the Trust Bank pledges itself to assist the area in meeting its goals."

Arrest 4 after crash, beating

Four St. Louis men were arrested following an auto accident and subsequent beating of a man at Madison Avenue and Nameoki Road at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Police alleged the auto of Earl J. Sampson, 19, of St. Louis, northbound on Nameoki Road at a high rate of speed, attempted to turn left onto Madison Avenue, went out of control and onto the median, went into the oncoming lanes and struck the stopped car of Alvin Brandes, 2212 Edison Ave., then continued again onto the median where it came to rest.

John Hufstetler, Kirkpatrick Homes, said he was walking nearby moments after the accident and that someone in the car told him to keep quiet about the car being on the median.

He said three other men approached him and one man jumped on him, beat him and kicked his face. He said the other three men then also jumped on him and hit and kicked him.

Police arrived and charged Sampson with reckless driving and illegal transportation of liquor. While they were attempting to arrest him, officers alleged three other men, who had been passengers in the car, interfered several times and kept walking into Madison Avenue, causing cars to swerve to avoid striking them.

Also arrested were Boddy Fields, 20, Daniel Fields, 18, and David Rosenzweig, who refused to give officers his age. All three were from St. Louis.

The four men allegedly caused disturbances in the squad car and at the police station and also were charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Hufstetler then identified the four as the men who allegedly beat him and aggravated battery charges were filed against each of the four.

Hearings on state employee financial disclosure form

The Illinois Board of Ethics has scheduled public hearings and is soliciting comments on a proposed financial disclosure form.

Under Executive Order 4 issued by Gov. Dan Walker in February 1973, gubernatorial appointees, all state employees earning more than $20 thousand a year, and state employees (such as inspectors) in positions "subject to undue influence" must file financial disclosure forms.

A public hearing on the proposed form will be held in Chicago at 9 a.m. Jan. 31 in Room 1015, State of Illinois Building, 160 N. LaSalle St.

A Springfield hearing is scheduled for 1 p.m. on Feb. 7; the location will be announced at a later date.

The board is soliciting comments regarding the proposed form from the general public, the press, state employees and organizations. Written comments may be submitted to the board at the Springfield office prior to the hearing dates.

Persons desiring to speak at the hearings are to notify the Board of Ethics of their intent prior to the hearings. Copies of the draft financial disclosure form may be obtained from the office of the Board of Ethics, 322 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62702, or from the Department of Personnel, Room 327, State of Illinois, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

Proposed rules also are being circulated for comments and may be obtained at the same locations.

RANSACK APARTMENT
April Reagan, 20054 Missouri Ave., reported at 9:25 p.m. Thursday that she returned home to find her front door open and her apartment ransacked.

Furniture had been overturned and the contents of drawers were ransacked. The victim did not believe anything had been stolen.

Births, deaths rise in 1974

Births and deaths increased in the Quad-City area during 1974, although the rise was slight in both instances, according to statistics reported by the office of City Clerk Robert Stevens.

Births for the 12-month period totaled 1,074, an increase of 70 over the 1,004 births recorded in 1973, while 1974 deaths totaled 473, compared to 455 for the previous year.

An increase of two in the number of fetals in the Quad-City area also was reported for 1974. There were 15 fetals during the year, compared to 13 in 1973.

Largest number of births in any single month was recorded in August with 106 births, compared with 78 births in the same month in the previous year. There were 48 deaths in August and 44 each in May and July.

The former Miss Mercer was escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law, Terry Smith. She chose a full length gown of sheer organza over taffeta, fashioned with a long train.

A wide lace trim created the high collar and accented the Empire bodice and long sheer sleeves.

She wore a pill box headpiece to hold in place a cathedral length veil, bordered in matching lace, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and yellow mums.

Miss Diane Dilday, a sister of the groom, served as honor attendant.

She wore a formal length blue and white dress, featuring a high neckline and short puff sleeves. The slightly full skirt was enhanced with a white lace trim.

Her bouquet was an arrangement of blue and white carnations.

The groom selected Ricky Courtney of the U.S. Navy as his best man.

Immediately following the service, a reception was held in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Blackwell, 2128 Illinois Ave.

The groom is stationed at Great Lakes Naval Station, where his wife is planning to join him.

Miss Mathias in Athens for a semester of study

A Granite City junior at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., Miss Carla Mathias, is among 27 DePauw students who left Toronto, Canada, last week to participate in a special academic program in Athens, Greece.

Enrolled in DePauw's Mediterranean Studies Semester, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mathias, 34 Oaklawn. She and her DePauw classmates arrived in Athens Jan. 8 and will begin classes at the Hellenic-American Union there today.

A four-day orientation session was scheduled in Athens before the Jan. 13 start of classes.

The orientation included formal lectures each day on the area's history and culture, and a tour of the sprawling city of two million. The students' permanent residence during the academic semester will be apartments leased to DePauw University.

All students will have informal Greek language instruction early in the semester, plus courses that deal with literature, religion, government and archaeology.

The regular classes will be supplemented by a number of field trips to museums, cultural events and historical sites. A group study trip is planned Feb. 14-18 to the island of Crete and another study trip to Cairo, Egypt, is projected for March 15-21.

DePauw students have been going to Cairo for three years despite pre-detente anti-Mediterranean literature the U. S. government. They have been cordially received by Egyptian officials and educators.

Being off campus won't excuse students from an old college tradition — examinations.

Mid-term exams will be administered in late April. Students will have a four-day spring break for optional travel in the Mediterranean basin.

An additional feature of the semester is an independent study period following final exams.

Students may work on an academic project of their own choice. Generally, it is the outgrowth of some specific topic that drew the student's interest during his regular classwork at the Hellenic-American Union.

This project may be carried on at a location of the student's choice.

The program in Athens as well as at other DePauw academic centers in Germany, Austria, Hungary and Sweden is developed and monitored by DePauw's Office of International Studies.

Students in the overseas programs are selected on the basis of prior academic performance, character and their promise for continued intellectual growth.

One of the unique features of DePauw's extensive international program is the fact that they are offered to students at virtually the same cost as a regular semester on the campus, including round-trip transportation, tuition, room and board.

Students on scholarship may also use their scholarships for international programs, so that by commencement time each year more than 50 percent of all DePauw graduating seniors have studied overseas.

Professor and Mrs. Thomas Emery are serving as husband-wife resident directors for the special semester in Athens. Emery is an associate professor of English in the University.

Miss Mathias, a 1972 graduate of Granite City High School, is majoring in zoology at DePauw University.

Table MHS entry in Cahokia grid league in 1975

Tentative plans disclosed during the fall by the Madison Board of Education for the Madison High School Trojan football program to become part of a new Cahokia Football Conference in the 1975 grid season have been tabled for the present time in favor of possibly entering another conference now being formed.

The Cahokia conference, if formed, would have included Madison, Columbia, Dupu, Freeburg, Wescell, Trenton and Orchard Farms.

All are class 3A enrollment schools (750 or less).

Cougars beaten; home game next

A winning streak had to end Saturday night at Keneshaw, Wis. as Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville battled the University of Wisconsin-Parkeese Rangers and lost, 81-67, in a basketball contest more bitterly fought than the score would indicate.

Couach Jim Dunsen said the Cougars are now 8-2; Parkside raised its record to 9-3 and has now won eight in a row. SIUE had won seven in a row.

The game was the Cougars' 10th straight on the road.

Dudley got two figure scoring from four of his starters: Vince Barnett (12), Dan Donahue (16), Don Koppeneaver (21) and the team's leading pointmaker, Keith McFarland (23).

The Cougars will open their home season Wednesday night with the Indiana University Northwest Chiefs furnishing the opposition. The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Edwardsville High School at 8 p.m.

Mat district at Edwardsville, sectional competition at South

Defending champions Savanna (Class A) and Olympia Fields (Rich Central) (Class AA) begin defense of their first-ever two-class titles when the 38th annual Illinois High School Association wrestling tournament series begins at the district level the weekend of Feb. 14-15. GCHS South again will be in the AA spotlight.

Assignment of schools to districts and correlated sectionals was announced Friday by IHSAA Executive Secretary Harry Fitzhugh.

"This year's series will be the biggest ever in terms of participating teams," Fitzhugh observed. "Based on the reaction to last year's first two-class series, the popularity of the sport in Illinois is mushrooming. This year's tournament series could be the most wide open of any."

District tournament competition in both Class A (for schools with enrollments of 750 or less) and Class AA (for schools with enrollments of 751 or more) will begin Valentine's Day (Friday, Feb. 14) in the evening at 15 of the 16 Class A sites (competition at Eureka will start Feb. 13) and at all 28 Class AA sites.

A total of 140 downstate and suburban schools entered this year's small school series. Last year, 131 schools entered.

A total of 241 downstate and suburban schools entered the large school series, an increase of 13 over last year.

Total number of schools entered, excluding members of the Chicago Public League, is 381.

First and second place finishes in each of the 12 weight classes at the districts advance to sectional warfare the weekend of Feb. 21-22.

Class A Sectionals will be held at: Mt. Olive, Normal (Univ.), Port Byron (Riverdale) and Yorkville.

Class AA Sectionals will be held at: Dixon, Granite City (South), Naperville (Central), Normal (Comm.), Northlake (West Leyden), Riverside (R-Brookfield) and Rockford (Boylan).

The top two finishers in each weight, along with the top two in each weight in the Chicago Public League meet, then advance to the state final tournament at the Assembly Hall, Champaign, the weekend of Feb. 28-March 1.

The state tournament will be conducted concurrently. Last year, more than 33,000 fans attended the finale.

The GCHS South sectional will feature top wrestlers from

Baseball coaching clinic slated at SIUE next week

The health, recreation and physical education department at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will hold a baseball clinic for area coaches Jan. 25 from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. in the University Center ballroom.

The third annual Hot Stove Conference on Modern Baseball Concepts is designed to help little league, high school and other amateur baseball coaches upgrade their programs.

Main purpose of the clinic is to disseminate information to coaches teaching the game.

Ray Riplemeier, pitching coach for the Philadelphia Phillies, will give pointers on the "Physical Aspects of Pitching" while Al Hrabosky, St. Louis Cardinals relief ace, will speak on "Mental Aspects of Pitching."

Fred Nelson, baseball coach at the University of Missouri in St. Louis, will talk about baserunning.

There will be a variety of films shown, including "Sliding," "Batter Up," and "Busting with Ted Williams."

Mini-clinics on drills, including infield drills, catching drills and physical conditioning drills, will be held.

They will be taught by representatives of Harris Teachers College, St. Louis University, Belleville Area College and Washington University.

The registration fee is $5 per person and includes all Hot Stove Conference materials. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Roy Lee, head baseball coach at SIUE, or the SIUE Office of Conferences and Institutes no later than Jan. 22.

Long fight to choose House speaker underscores outlook for an ineffective and chaotic Illinois legislative session

Comments by the Press-Record's Springfield Bureau—Nobody will win. Everybody will lose.

That's how Capitol cynics view the bruising battle for speaker of the House for the 79th Illinois General Assembly. Of the many declared challengers for the speakership, there is a general feeling that whoever comes out on top is going to regret it in the long run. There are predictions the legislator who is elected speaker for the 1975 session is doomed to follow the same route to political destruction as the outgoing speaker, Republican W. Robert Blair of Park Forest.

The outlook for the 79th Assembly is so bleak that whoever is identified with it in a position of leadership is bound to attract a flood of adverse public opinion, goes the Springfield Record's analysis.

It is widely assumed that the eventual winner of the current free-for-all will be a one-term speaker at best and a governor at worst. Whoever could have trouble even assuring re-election as a representative in his home House district in 1976.

Despite a commanding Democratic majority in the House, 101 to 76 Republican members, the party is so factionalized and fragmented that the House may wind up about as divided and ineffective as the usual French parliament.

Little of substance in state government has been accomplished during the first two years of Democratic Gov. Dan Walker's administration and the outlook is for continued political proclivities but no constructive solutions to Illinois' mounting problems.

In view of all this, it was not surprising that some GOP level Republicans have been cautioning GOP House members not to get involved in the struggle for the House speakership, but to let the Democrats fight it out among themselves.

It had been speculated at the Statehouse that Republicans might rally behind Democratic Minority Leader Clyde Chouteau of Anna, making it possible for him to overcome the opposition of Gov. Walker's forces to win the speakership.

But some GOP leaders believe such a role by their party would play into Walker's hands. For—what if things go badly in the legislature, as most people think they will—Gov. Walker can once again place the blame on the Republicans, citing any role in the Speaker's fight as proof of their obstructionism to his administration.

The 79th Assembly undoubtedly is a confused and Oil problem—government antagonistic?

By CHARLES DI BONA
Executive Vice President
American Petroleum Institute

Although the current petroleum situation is adequate, another year or two could find us back waiting in line at gas stations.

For this winter and next year, the liquid petroleum situation looks pretty good, especially now that the threat of a major prolonged cold strike has been eliminated.

If we have another oil embargo, or—even more likely—a strict U.S. government-imposed import limits, the whole situation could change. It only takes a 2 per cent shortage in supply to bring back the lines at the gas stations. Government regulations, controls and threats of adverse legislation are delaying the development of needed petroleum supplies.

Our current situation leaves us too heavily dependent on prayers for good weather and the good will of the petroleum exporting countries. But the future looks worse. Domestic oil production is falling in the U.S. Imports will rise. The oil industry does have long-term plans for increasing U.S. energy supplies and reducing our dependence on foreign oil.

But the plans require huge capital investments. We have made the "easy discoveries." Most new oil and natural gas will be found in Alaska, at greater depths on the mainland of the lower 48 states, or offshore in all greatly expensive projects.

Oil industry profits are essential, if new energy sources are to be developed. Until recently, petroleum profits have averaged less than those of other industries.

Recent profit figures have been inflated by inventory gains, which are simply "paper" rather than real petroleum supplies.

Moreover, profits—as well as billions of dollars of borrowed capital—are plowed back into exploration and research projects.

Oil profits work for the consumer, not against him.

The industry spends enormous sums to insure that American consumers will have fuel. There are no shortages of oil, but they will ultimately lead to crucial and expensive shortages.

Natural gas is a good example. The incentives needed to encourage extensive searches for new supplies are insufficient because the price of interstate natural gas is held at an artificially low level.

These low prices, at the same time, create an unnaturally high demand for natural gas.

More consumers are now dependent on natural gas than would have been if other fuels were competitive in price. High demand and low supply equals a natural gas shortage.

Only natural gas sold within the state in which it is produced commands adequate prices.

Thus consumers of gas-producing states have sufficient supplies, although they must pay a higher price.

Even this may change, though. Rather than, do the sensible thing and remove regulation, there are proposals to bring interstate, as well as interstate, natural gas prices under federal regulations.

Judging from history, the result would be increasing shortages.

This proposal, like much of the legislation currently being discussed, has the effect of increasing risks and reducing returns on investment.

The threat of increased regulation, higher taxes and price rollbacks could dry up incentives, investments and finally supplies.

The environmental issue is another threat. Some groups oppose any further development of this country's petroleum reserves.

At the same time, they favor environmental controls that increase the use of petroleum.

In fact, the estimated cost of environmental measures in terms of added imports of expensive foreign oil will be four million barrels per day in 1975. I wonder if every one of these environmental objectives is worth its cost to the American public.

The growth of a conservation ethic that goes beyond the bounds of reason is another handicap to the oil industry's ability to attract needed capital.

The government's consideration of the repeal of the oil depletion allowance is another potential handicap. The end result of such a measure is predictable.

The government would collect higher taxes, while the consumer would pay more for the petroleum he buys, since it would have to be imported.

The possible establishment of a federal oil agency is alarming.

Do we really need or want another government agency like the postal service to try to supply our energy needs?

Without the restraint of regulation, the oil industry can and will supply the nation's needs.

The oil industry is eager to get on with the job. We can do it if we are free of the incentive-destroying threat of adverse government action.

Oil problem—government too friendly?

By U.S. SENATOR
ADLAI E. STEVENSON

In December, two members of the President's Cabinet, his new energy administrator, the chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers and others went to Camp David to formulate a national energy policy.

After the first day, one of the participants was asked what kind of program would emerge, and was quoted as saying, "I won't be exactly how it's going to come out, but what I will bet is that it's too little, too late."

That frustration is shared by the Congress and the public. Both Democrats and Republicans have no energy program.

The pronouncements of its energy czar, one after another, have the ears themselves rendered inoperative.

This administration has only one constant: everything is on energy policy. It moves in lockstep with the major oil companies.

The major oil companies do not want standby emergency legislation that could conserve energy, reduce consumption and profits and force them to return to the United States. Several factors can delay a refund, but you can avoid some of them. For example, be sure all the arithmetic on your return is correct, and make certain your Social Security number and your spouse's are right and that they are written in appropriate ink. Place the pre-addressed label from the forms package mailed to you on your return. Its use will speed the processing of your return.

Finally, remember that the IRS cannot send you your refund unless you sign your return.

A. The IRS makes a special effort to send notices to taxpayers as quickly as possible. This normally takes from three to five weeks after the return is filed. Place the pre-addressed label from the forms package mailed to you on your return. Its use will speed the processing of your return.

Finally, remember that the IRS cannot send you your refund unless you sign your return.

I joined Sen. Henry Jackson and several of our colleagues in early December to draft new legislation providing standby authorities for use in the event of another emergency.

The very day we introduced that bill, we finally heard from the administration that it was not to be considered.

The administration asked us to delay Senate consideration of the bill until the government's capitulation to its demands for still higher prices.

In just 168 leases in the Gulf of Mexico signed by the Federal Power Commission, producible commercial wells with estimated recoverable gas reserves of almost five trillion cubic feet were found to be shut in.

These wells are located on public property, but the Department of the Interior steadfastly refuses to compel their production or forfeiture.

The major oil companies, primary interest is making money—not making oil and gas.

It is the government's job to protect its citizens from that kind of economic blackmail.

But, instead, this administration persists in acting as big oil's agent.

It is well aware of the need for reforming the regulation of natural gas and compelling the production of withheld supplies.

After chairing hearings during which I heard more than 150 witnesses on the question of natural gas regulation, I sought the collaboration of the administration last June in an effort to develop legislation that would protect the interests of natural gas producers and consumers.

By early August, we were confident we had reached an agreement.

But the oil companies did not agree. Increased prices were not enough for them; they wanted total deregulation.

If the administration had been willing to strike a reasonable balance between the interest of the oil industry and the public interest, the natural gas situation would have been resolved months ago.

As it is, the compromise bill we drafted in August has been further improved by the Commerce Committee and is now ready.

The bill before the committee would reform the regulatory process, establish higher ceiling prices for newly discovered natural gas, freeze the price of old gas and allocate it to residential and commercial users.

It would forbid the waste of petroleum from regulation, compel the production of commercially producible wells in the public domain, and exempt from regulation independent producers who run most of the risks in exploration of new supplies of gas.

That legislation is reasonable. The Senate would have an opportunity to consider it early in this session.

By signing the International Energy Agreement in Brussels in November, the administration made a solemn commitment to develop mandatory conservation plans, limit imports of high-priced foreign crude and develop standby emergency energy reserves.

Germany, France, Britain and now Japan have all either undertaken or announced mandatory conservation programs aimed at lessening their dependence on high priced foreign oil.

The United States is the only major industrialized nation which has not yet established any program or enacted any of the standby authorities necessary to fulfill its commitments under the Brussels agreement.

The fact is that we have been long on rhetoric, and short on action. Sept. 23 in Detroit, the President finally acknowledged the relationship between high energy costs and looming worldwide depression.

In diplomatic terms, he came close to threatening war against the foreign oil producers for establishing extortionate energy prices.

Yet, when the threat of economic disaster demanded decisive action at home, the President joined with the major oil companies to adopt the same high foreign prices for domestic energy he had condemned—and at the expense of killing the only legislation that could have given the administration the authority it needs to initiate energy conservation and stockpiling programs.

If this administration does not end its alliance with the oil industry, the 94th Congress will enact a mandatory energy program without it.

Q. How can I correct the information on my W-2 Wage and Tax Statement for 1974?

A. If you receive an erroneous Form W-2, you should ask your employer to issue a new W-2. The new W-2 should be clearly marked "corrected copy." You should then file Copy B of the corrected statement with your Federal tax return.

DIXON—When the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, the forest primeval which greeted their view was made up of white pines, which the Indians already prized for medicinal properties. The new arrivals put the trees to new use—they cut the tall, straight trunks to build the first houses of which we have any record in America.

Later, the newcomers adopted the Indians' attitude about the medical value of the white pine, especially for lung complaints. The Indians also used bundles of twigs in their medicinal sweat baths.

The Pilgrims even made their own sawdust of its wood, and stamped them with its image. The timber stand has historic as well as natural values, since it lies in the heart of the so-called Black Hawk country with its many associations with the Indian chief who delayed, if he could not entirely leave the forest, his people from the Rock River valley they cherished.

In May of 1832, an important engagement in the Black Hawk War was fought nearby, above Dixon. Poorly disciplined volunteers, commanded by Gov. John Reynolds, were routed and put to flight, but the Indian victory was only temporary, and eventually they were subdued and driven from the Rock River country.

Black Hawk himself knew not only exile, but the ignominy of being placed in custody of his hated rival, Keokuk.

Even the blacklock road which forms the south end of the park has a history—it was once part of the old Chicago-Iowa trail, the chief route for many years linking east and west across this section of Illinois.

White pines is not the only natural attractions in the state park which bears the name. Against moss-covered cliffs covered with trailing vines are stands of hardwoods including maple, ash, elm, oak, basswood and hickory, their shade brightened in season by the trout lily, Solomon's seal, bloodroot, blue-eyed grass, spring beauty and hepatica. The forest shelters many common fur-bearing species, and birds are numerous, including the white-throated sparrow, while winter brings many northern species.

White Pines is one of the Conservation Department's state parks with lodge offering overnight accommodations to visitors on the Euro-plan. The lodge, open from April 1 to Nov. 1, has a lounge in one wing and dining room in the other. There are 13 one-room log cabins, and three four-room cabins, all fully equipped.

For those bringing their own accommodations, there are tent sites and a few trailer sites with a disposal station. Picnic areas have water, fireplaces, tables and playground equipment. Winding through the virgin pines are miles of foot trails which eventually rise to the crest of the bluff at the western edge of the park.

In winter, there is sledding on the park's rolling hills, and in summer, an interpretive program operates, as well as the visitor center to the environment.

Buses or car pools after school?

To the Editor:

My heart goes out to the family of the boy killed by an auto while he was on the way home from an after-school activity.

I have lost loved ones to senseless tragedy. And I mourn for my child, who has suffered anguish as one of the Granite City boy's classmates.

The desire of the boy's family to "do something" to lessen the risk of such a future tragedy taking place in another home will be applauded, however, rather than place the burden on the public, why not:

1. Contact the parents of children who participate in after-school activities.

2. Establish car pools, taxi pools or even bus service, so long as the organizational financial responsibilities are carried by the parents of the children who participate in after-school activities.

It is not primarily the "few extra tax dollars each year" which alarms me most in this issue; rather, it is the wheels are being set in motion to pass on still another individual responsibility to the "do something" to lessen the risk of such a future tragedy taking place in another home will be applauded, however, rather than place the burden on the public, why not:

1. Contact the parents of children who participate in after-school activities.

2. Establish car pools, taxi pools or even bus service, so long as the organizational financial responsibilities are carried by the parents of the children who participate in after-school activities.

Soon there may be no choice, even on the part of the student, as to whether he will participate in after-school activities—a decision will be made for him by a public official.

I have a child and numerous nieces and nephews who participate in after-school activities.

If I cannot pick up my child, I arrange for a relative or friend to do so, or provide cab fare. Studies have probably shown that she would be safer walking home than getting into an automobile with a stranger.

Citizens must realize that parents must bear some degree of responsibility in the child's freedom to participate in related activities, if we are going to live under the democratic system of government.

LOCAL MOTHER

Prevention better than rehabilitation

To the Editor:

We quite efficiently accomplish so many things with machines. We have perhaps 12,000,000 alcoholics in these United States.

I suppose the means of a new machine we cure all these alcoholics? Would that not be marvelous?

2. Suppose when that is accomplished we set up a machine to make more and more and more alcoholics. Would that not be foolish and try to make more and more alcoholics?

3. We vote for proposition number 1, but vote against proposition number 2. That is fine.

That is just the system we have.

We quite unsuccessfully attempt to cure the latest alcoholics but at the same time we quite efficiently and tragically make more and more alcoholics by licensing the liquor traffic.

Surely our present course is a deadly course and a curse to our adults, our youth, our children and our way of life.

Remember, too, that the liquor traffic pays no tax in reality, because it takes about five times as much to overcome the tax paid.

Let's work for a dry and decent country. Let us do that which pleases our Lord.

There is no solution of the liquor problem except intensive enforcement of the law, prohibition and faithful enforcement of the law.

MIRRORS AND GEOMETRIC THINKING. Marion Walter (left), author of children's books on geometric thinking, shows Thomas C. O'Brien, associate professor of elementary education at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, how a mirror can be used to double the number of dots in a book, to make wholes out of halves, and to see things become longer and shorter, fewer and more. Miss Walter has been lecturing at sessions of the area teachers' centers sponsored by SIUE. "The mirror card concept helps children grasp simple mathematical concepts and develop their language skills," she said. "They soon learn where to place the mirror to devise solutions to various visual situations."

Madison advisory group at training workshop

Six parents, members of the Citizen Advisory Committee and the Madison Advisory Committee from Madison School District 12, attended a Community Awareness Training Workshop at Lincolnwood Hyatt House at Lincolnwood, Ill. Friday through Sunday.

The awareness training was provided by the Equal Education Opportunity Center of the National College of Education of Evanston, Ill. The National College of Education has a center for program development in Equal Educational Opportunity (EEO Center) funded under Title IV, section 403, of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The federal grant has been used to establish a general assistance center providing technical assistance and training to local school districts that are desegregated or desegregating.

The EEO center's primary purpose is to provide in-service education programs focusing upon issues incident to school desegregation. These programs assist school districts in developing a broad range of strategies which help the school personnel to maximize their effectiveness in whatever role they perform within the desegregated environment.

The Institute's program includes activities which engage school personnel in an assessment of problems related to desegregation and equal educational opportunity. Personnel then participate in an experience based in-service program designed to assist participants in developing skills, techniques and processes which can be utilized to plan and carry out action projects which are to alleviate the problems identified.

Madison School District 12 has been identified as one of the 25 eligible participating districts, by having been or currently being under court order to desegregate. One of the many services offered by the EEO Center is state wide awareness training workshops for all segments of the community — school board, administrators, teachers, parents, and community leaders. The purposes for the awareness training are to make participants aware of the racial and cultural problems encountered by minority students in desegregated schools. The program goals are:

- (1) To develop an awareness of how one's own and one's group experiences affect one's perceptions of oneself and others;
- (2) To analyze oneself in relation to society;
- (3) To distinguish between racial prejudice and racism;
- (4) To analyze policies and practices of one's own school which support or block multiracial quality education;
- (5) To identify the needs of one's own school in the area of equal educational opportunity and develop an action plan;
- (6) To gain information about specific material resources and techniques for participants to use in their work with students;
- (7) To gain information about the EEO Center program and its resources.

Those attending from the Citizens Advisory Committee were: Jean Boyer, Lenora Brown, Barbara Guest, Donna Thomas. Representing the Minister's Advisory Committee were The Rev. Ellis Seals and

Cities should fight unacceptable regional-state policies—Howlett

For a stronger voice in Springfield and Washington, Southern Illinois cities and villages must speak collectively, Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state, said Saturday night.

Howlett was guest speaker at a dinner, meeting of the Southern Illinois Mayors Association at the Ramada Inn, Mount Vernon.

"Municipalities of Southern Illinois, spread out over 34 counties from the Mississippi to the Wabash, have common problems different from the larger, more heavily populated municipalities to the north," said Howlett.

"Local government is bigger than state or federal government. It is closer to the people it serves."

"A resident of a municipality of 250 population, or even of 20,000 or 25,000, is more likely to know his mayor personally than his state legislator or his congressman.

"A small-town mayor, trying to comply with environmental standards, or labor practice or other standards set by a parent government — and still protect the property tax base of his community — is a thin, small voice telling his story to a state or federal agency."

"But, banded together, you can make your influence felt. You have a stronger defense against imposition of programs from a higher level of government which may not be acceptable to your local constituency."

"As secretary of state for two years, and as Illinois auditor of public accounts for 12 years earlier, I enjoyed a cordial relationship with officers of cities and villages."

"There are many ways in which our office can cooperate with municipalities," Howlett said.

"We cooperate with local police departments by providing microfiche copies of car registrations."

"With the microfiche equipment, we supply the information much faster and less expensively than the old printed wheel books of former years, saving hundreds of thousands of dollars for the taxpayers."

"Our car registration computer is hooked up with the LEADS (Law Enforcement Agencies Data System) computer in the state Department of Law Enforcement for instant information to 200 terminals on the LEADS network."

"A local police car with two-way radio to a dispatcher with a LEADS terminal can check the name and address of the license holder of a car he is chasing, while he is chasing it."

"As state librarian, I cooperate with municipalities for better local libraries."

"Nearly all local public libraries in Illinois are members of our state network of 18 library systems."

"Through these systems, any citizen has immediate access to all the resources of the network and of major research and reference centers."

"Our goal is to give every Illinois citizen access to the intellectual resources of the world."

"As secretary of state, I am ex-officio chairman of Illinois' new Vehicle Recycling Board. We are working on a program to help cities and villages get rid of junk cars."

"We aim to minimize the cost to municipalities of retrieving an abandoned car and disposing of it, and maximize the municipalities' income from sale of the junk."

"In the problems hurting our region today — inflation, recession, unemployment — we must look for leadership from government at the grassroots."

"City and village governments face inflation problems as serious as consumer inflation. Goods and services purchased by municipalities have gone up faster than consumer prices."

"We cannot expect Washington, or Springfield, to stop inflation, recession or unemployment without help from local governments."

"Mayors, village presidents and municipal officers must develop their own programs — to save the taxpayers' money, to encourage industry and to create jobs."

"Our responsibility, at every government level, is to provide the most and the best service at the lowest cost to the taxpayers."

Issue permits for signs

New signs for Cline's Restaurant, 2011 State St., and for the Granite City Car Wash, 3700 Nameoki Road, were among projects for which building permits were issued during the first 10 days of January.

The new Cline's Restaurant sign will be 22 square feet in size and will cost $600. The car wash sign will be 140 square feet. No cost was listed.

Permits also were issued to Robert White, 3005 National, to construct a $2,000 carport at his home, and to William Brannan, 2102 Nevada, for tuckpointing costing $200.

Two permits to raze structures were issued, one to Harrison Padgett to raze a four-room house at 3825 Nameoki Road, and one to William DuBay to demolish a four-stall garage at 1369 Edwardsville Road.

Drug program Wednesday

A drug awareness program for adults only is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Madison Recreation Center, Seventh and Lee streets, Madison.

The program is being presented by the Madison Police Department and Explorer Post 104 as a public service and is designed to assist parents in understanding and coping with the drug culture of today.

No persons under 18 will be admitted due to the frankness of the presentations, according to Chief of Police Frank Dutko.

Participating in the program will be Dr. George T. Wilkins, a local medical doctor; Dr. David Paul, Ph.D., a registered pharmacist; Gerald Brown, assistant principal of Granite City High School North; Father Walter Leckie, Mayor Mike Sasyk; Sgt. Gary Burns, head of the Madison County Sheriff's narcotic squad; Madison Juvenile Officer Donald Bridick, and Chief Dutko.

W. F. "Mick" Strange, institutional representative of Explorer Post 104 and former youth counselor with the Illinois Youth Commission, will act as moderator for the meeting.

This question and many others were part of the first pilot test of the Illinois Inventory of Educational Progress, conducted by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. The program will go into high gear in September 1975.

The goal of the IIEP is to "provide information about what Illinois students know, feel and do," according to the OSPI. It will also provide for the identification of educational successes as well as areas in need of greater attention and additional resources.

What it will not be, he said, is a tool to determine the general aptitude of students, how a particular student ranks in relation to other students, or how well individual school districts are doing.

A total of 6,000 students, chosen by random sampling, will be tested in three subject areas each year.

Traffic deaths drop in 1974

Lieutenant Albert J. Beragnoli, State Police District Commander for the nine-county area in District 11, headquartered at Maryville, announced today statistics show that during 1974, there were 34 fewer persons killed in accidents than in 1973, in District 11.

District 11 also had a reduction of 676 accidents in 1974, he said.

The superintendent of the Illinois State Police, Dwight E. Pitman, reported that during December 137 persons died of injuries sustained in traffic accidents on Illinois Highways, seven less than in December 1973.

Provisional figures show that 1,961 people were killed from Jan. 1 through Dec. 31 last year. This total reflects a decrease of 408 from the number of fatalities reported in 1973.

Superintendent Pitman said, "While there are several possible causes for this reduction, the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit, which was imposed early last year as a result of the Emergency Highway Conservation Act, certainly has had some effect on the total."

A reduced number of miles driven by the public and the possibility of increased use of seat belt restraint systems, as well as other factors also are to be considered as causes for this year's reduction in fatalities."

Karen Lee (Chuck) Shubert from Richard Elton Shubert, both of Granite City. They were married Oct. 7, 1972. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of one child was granted to the mother.

Charles Edward Hutchinson from Carolyn Joyce (Rushing) Hutchinson, both of Granite City. They were married March 22, 1963. Mental cruelty was charged. Custody of four children was granted to the mother.

To aid Spanish war veterans

The Illinois regional office of the Veterans Administration will begin a special outreach effort this month to inform veterans of the Spanish American War of their benefits.

Claude Gilman, director of the VA office in Chicago, said many of the SAW veterans could receive more pension money if they changed over to the current pension law instead of choosing to remain under the old service pension law. Aid and attendance amounts are available to eligible veterans under the new law.

Gillman pointed out the average age of SAW veterans is now 94.7 and the new outreach program would assist these older veterans to figure out which pension provision would be to their advantage. Because of their age and possible physical incapacities, the VA feels they may need assistance in making a determination in favor of a larger pension which they may not be aware exists under the new law.

As of October 1974, Illinois had 40 Spanish American War veterans on its rolls. Nationally there are 1,287 survivors who participated in that war.

First-born smarter? Researcher says 'No'

A new round of research which is expected to disprove the theory that first-born children are more intelligent than their brothers and sisters has been launched by John N. McCall, professor of Psychology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

McCall has been named the winner of the SIUE School of Education's first Research Award.

He will work part-time during the winter quarter and full-time in the spring on his project, titled "Spurious Psychological Effects of Birth Rank and Family Size Due to Sample and Population Characteristics."

McCall's proposal was selected in competition conducted by the School of Education Research and Projects Committee.

Stefan P. Kuchnick, who was acting dean at the time a decision was made to sponsor the competition, said, "The primary purpose is to stimulate scholarly activity in the School of Education and thus generate innovative ideas in either basic research or inquiry devoted to the improvement of professional practice."

McCall, who has conducted numerous studies in the fields of psychological tests and measurements, counseling methods, descriptive statistics, and vocational diagnosis, disagrees with a popular belief that "first-born children are favored for better intellectual development."

The SIUE psychologist acknowledges the researchers' claim to have "proved" with studies and statistics that the popular theory concerning first-born is correct. "But I don't believe it," he said.

"In my opinion, if the right research methods are used, the apparent relationship between birth rank and intelligence washes out. That is, I think it can be shown that the second, third and later-born children in a family turn out just about as well as the first-born."

McCall said the purpose of his current research is to prove that incorrect sampling methods have been used in the studies which purport to support the "first-born theory."

He will use the university's computer to build a "model" to show their erroneous conclusions in a more definitive way.

According to McCall, "Historically, for religious or other reasons, families in most of our societies gave their inheritance to the first-born."

"This had an economic advantage. It kept the family estate together. It's a popular belief deeply engrained in our culture, to preserve the family heritage."

"I'm impressed by how many journal editors and everyone else want to believe that first-born have this advantage and therefore deserve the best," McCall continued. "It means in many cases that the first-born get sent to college and are afforded other advantages, while the later-born more or less have to fend for themselves."

The SIUE psychologist believes many researchers have failed to use the proper statistical control for social class and other factors in their investigations of the first-born phenomenon.

"The reason for the spurious effect is that, for example, if you go to the Edwardsville eighth grade, get their IQs and ask them what their birth rank is, the chances are the students who come from large families also are later-born and also are from lower social classes."

"Whatever the cause, whether it's hereditary or cultural, these children are likely to have IQs as a group, and they are likely to have lower birth ranks because they come from large families," McCall explained.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Mon., Jan. 13, 1975 Page 11

"What we ought to be doing is studying an entire family," the psychology professor suggested. "In my opinion, many of the researchers have not taken into account the social class differences which get into their samples."

"In other words, what they're really measuring is the relationship between social class and IQ, I think. But they're measuring it by birth order. That's the heart of the controversy I've gotten into," McCall concluded.

The Happy Strings Junior Tammis Parents Group held its monthly meeting at Croatian Home, with Charles Hagnauer, vice-president, presiding in the absence of president Frank Barunica.

Plans were finalized for Joe Niemczyk, a trustee of the Croatian Fraternal Union Junior Cultural Federation, to attend a meeting in Chicago the latter part of January. Niemczyk declined the group's offer to finance his trip. Also accompanying Niemczyk will be the music director, Tom Kelam, and several members of the group.

Also completed were plans for a concert and social to be given by the Happy Strings Junior Tammis on Sunday, April 20, at Granite City High School South auditorium beginning at 3 p.m., followed by a social at Croatian Home in Madison.

A vote-getting contest will be held, with the person receiving the winning votes awarded a side of beef at the March parents meeting.

Man faces two theft charges

James "Junior" Welch, 2301 E. 26th St., was arrested at his home at 11:05 p.m. Thursday on two felony charges of theft after police alleged finding a stolen car and a stolen trailer trailer at Quality Auto Repair, a business Welch operates in a garage at the rear of his house, officials said.

Granite City police reported they had obtained a search warrant for the stolen vehicles prior to going to the garage. The auto was stolen from Paul Heffrich, Collinsville, Oct. 15, and the travel trailer was taken from Kenny Williams, Auto Sales, St. Louis, Nov. 11, it was alleged.

Prison term on state fuel taxation scheme

A major retail motor fuel dealer last week became the first person ever sentenced to the penitentiary in connection with an Illinois state tax fraud, following his conviction in the largest state criminal tax prosecution in Illinois history.

Benedetto J. Massarella, 44, LaGrange, president of Bee Jay's Truck Stop, 970 West Pershing Road, was sentenced to one to three years for theft of motor fuel taxes, and for perjury.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Marvin E. Aspen further ordered Massarella to repay the state a total of more than $425,000 and fines totaling $40,000. If necessary, Judge Aspen said, Massarella must sell his business to pay the fines and taxes.

In addition to Bee Jay's Truck Stop, Massarella owns Midwest Transport, Inc. The corporations themselves were convicted of conspiracy and theft and were held to be jointly liable with Massarella for payment of the $425,000.

Illinois Attorney General William J. Scott, whose new Financial Crimes Unit prosecuted the case, was present in the courtroom at the time of sentencing. He said the victory was a milestone in developing the legal tools to deal with "white collar crime."

"For the first time in Illinois judicial history," Scott said, "a person who uses cunning to steal from the people of the state through tax fraud faces the same deterrent of a penitentiary sentence as does sophisticated street-corner criminals who use force to steal a few dollars."

Scott also praised the Illinois Department of Revenue for its exhaustive investigation of the "massive scheme to defraud the state."

Scott said that from August 1967 through May 1971, more than 6.2 million gallons of untaxed heating oil were diverted to Bee Jay's Truck Stop, where it was sold as diesel fuel; 7.5 cents a gallon state motor fuel tax was collected and never paid to the state.

CAMPAIGN DISCLOSURE requirements are discussed by William L. Harris (left), board member of the State Board of Elections, and Evelyn M. Bowles, county clerk of Madison County.

Campaign disclosure law filing deadline—Jan. 31

When in doubt, file with your county clerk in January. That's the advice Michael E. Lavelle, chairman of the State Board of Elections, is giving to anyone who has been or is involved in politics on a local level in Illinois.

He offered the advice because the state's new Campaign Disclosure Law went into effect for many persons in January. "The effective date for existing local political committees and local candidates who may be defined as 'local committees' under the law is Jan. 1," Lavelle said. "The deadline for filing is Jan. 31," he reminded those involved in campaigns.

The Campaign Disclosure Law, enacted by the Illinois General Assembly in September, is comprehensive and has far-reaching ramifications.

Individuals may be considered "political committees" even if they are indirectly involved in collecting funds that may ultimately be used to support or oppose candidates or questions of public policy, Lavelle told the Press-Record.

"Since the law contains criminal penalties for non-compliance, it is essential that citizens and groups concerned with election campaigns examine the requirements of the law for their own protection."

He also pointed out that the State Board of Elections is sending out a specially-trained task force to work with clerks throughout the state, assisting them in interpreting and administering the new law.

This task force already has held a series of special training seminars for county clerks during December at DeKalb, Normal, Macomb, Charleston, Carbondale and Edwardsville, Lavelle said.

The Springfield office of the State Board of Elections is at 110 Iles Park Place. The phone number is (217) 782-4140.

The Chicago office of the State Board is at 100 N. LaSalle St. The number there is (312) 793-4980. Michael E. Lavelle of Chicago is chairman of the Board. Vice chairman is Don W. Adams of Springfield. William L. Harris and Franklin J. Lundberg Jr. of Winnetka are board members.

Extend trucker fee deadline

The deadline for certificated truckers to pay their annual franchise fees has been extended one month beyond the normal renewal date of Feb. 1 because the application forms were about 45 days late in delivery from the printer, Chairman Marvin Lieberman of the Illinois Commerce Commission announced.

He said the delay in receiving the printed forms makes it impossible to process the applications before the Feb. 1 deadline.

Those persons holding common carrier certificates or contract carrier permits and who want to renew them for another year will have until March 1 to display the proper credentials on their vehicles indicating payment of the annual franchise fee, Lieberman said.

Payment of the fee is indicated either by a decal, an case of intrastate operators, or a stamp, in the case of interstate carriers.

2 Menard guards are suspended

Two guards at the Menard Correctional Center in Chester have been suspended pending investigation for discharge, according to Allyn R. Sielaff, director of the Illinois Department of Corrections.

They are Lt. Billie Gene Hargett, 47, of Thompsonville, and Officer Roy Res, 27, of Chester.

Sielaff said that the action is the result of an investigation by the Correction Department's Internal Security Unit. The probe began in July, 1974, when allegations were first made against the two guards.

The allegations against Hargett included violation of regulations concerning the possession of weapons within the institution. Res was alleged to have demeaned a superior officer, among other charges. Hargett has worked at Menard since July 1, 1956, and Res since March 1, 1970.

We ran into a deal on Crab Meat. Normally we do not sell a lot of this item because at $1.39 and $1.49 per can it just isn't our "cup of tea."

However, ten cases were shipped in error and rather than pay the freight back to Chicago, they reduced the price slightly, so in todays ad we have Crab Meat at 69¢ per can. This is a "one time deal."

We have been running some deals on butter because we want to make the point that compared to Margarine, butter is a good buy. Years ago when Margarine was 15¢ lb. (not too many years ago) and butter was 79¢, not too much butter was being sold. Today, we have some brands of Margarine selling for the same price as butter. Since many of you got out of the habit of buying butter, we thought some special sales might get you "back in the swing."

We have noticed that many of our customers are cutting down on what we call "junk items," that is, items that don't make a meal, but are just consumed casually as "snacks." This includes Potato Chips, Ice Cream, Candy, Snack Crackers, etc. We think that this shows that we have pretty smart people shopping in our store. What they are doing is still putting meat and potatoes on the table and eliminating some of the frills. Who knows. Ice Cream may again become a "treat instead of a necessity."

Business women to hear educator

Dr. Margaret Fagin, an associate professor of education and director of women's and estate programs at the University of Missouri at St. Louis, will be guest speaker Wednesday at the Granite City Business and Professional Women's dinner meeting.

The 6:30 p.m. dinner will be held at Charlie's Restaurant.

Persons interested in attending are asked to call 452-2189, or 877-4151 for reservations, according to Mrs. Genevieve Grady, program chairman.

In keeping with the 1975 BPW theme, "Blueprint for Women," Dr. Fagin will speak on "How Do You Formulate A Life Plan?"

A member of UMSL faculty since 1968, Dr. Fagin instituted a program called "Personal Development" geared to secretaries when she became aware of the frustration many women encountered in re-entering the business world. She believes the greatest obstacle for most women to overcome is a lack of confidence, she explained, adding the course she devised teaches women how to cope with behavioral and emotional aspects of their jobs.

The eight sessions have been presented 53 times in 30 different communities. Specialized courses are given to physician and hospital assistants, employees at banks, utility companies and law firms and each time are adapted to meet the needs of the group. Women are taught to recognize the problems they face in dealing with co-workers and supervisors.

The eight two-hour courses include sessions on "Office Climate," "Motivation," "Office Update" and the Kings Plans were completed last week by the Amvets Auxiliary Post 51 to host a family day to be combined with the annual Valentine party Saturday, Feb. 15, at the post home.

Mrs. Betty Wilkins, president, opened the meeting and reports followed by Mrs. Charlene Sanders and Mrs. Jackie Petras, joint vice president.

A review of the holiday projects was given by Mrs. Petras, who announced a $25 donation was given to a needy family and special shoes were presented to a teenage boy. Baskets of canned goods and gifts also were taken to area families, Mrs. Petras said.

The vice-president reported that 119 gift wrapped presents had been distributed at both the Madison County Nursing Home and the Shelter Care Home during the holidays, and a special gift was given to Martha Longly, a past national president of the Amvets Auxiliary.

Serving as hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Brockman and Mrs. Joan Hanson. The evening prize was won by Mrs. Hanson. Mrs. Varner closed the meeting with prayer.

This year's convention will mark the 50th anniversary of the sorority.

Homemakers revise unit bylaws

Granite City Unit of the Madison County Homemakers Extension Association met last week at Grace Baptist Church to approve new by-laws which will take effect in July.

Members agreed to institute a method whereby hostesses and those presenting lessons at monthly meetings will be assigned alphabetically instead of on a volunteer basis as currently practiced.

Beginning next January each member attending a meeting will bring cookies, with Mrs. John Siebert purchasing and preparing the coffee, it was agreed.

Mrs. Lucille Sobczak, chairman, was in charge of the business session. She welcomed 20 members and two guests, Mrs. Jacqueline Hopper of New Orleans, La., a former member, who has been residing in Chicago and recently moved back to this area.

The major lesson, entitled "Comparison Food Shopping," was given by Mrs. Lori Hintz.

Mrs. Sobczak said information relating to the new by-laws may be obtained by calling her, or by contacting Mrs. Madge Ramsey.

Hostesses for the Feb. 5 meeting at Grace Baptist Church will include Mesdames Anna Michael, Gruber and Bernice Johannmeier.

The major lesson for February, "Ground Meat and TV," will be presented by Mrs. Martha McIlroy and Mrs. Freddie McElroy.

Members recited the pledge of allegiance and a prayer in unison.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Ann Bialzak and Mrs. Joan Wilkins. They awarded a special prize to Mrs. Blondie Dillon.

Others present were Mesdames Elizabeth Wisnick, Mary Krekovich, Josephine Knezevich, Elizabeth Yankoff, Betty Dobrowski, Vera Sikora, Rose Rogers, Sue Miller, Fritz Troits, Catherine Hakkarainen, LaVerne Harris, Joan Wilkins, Christine Green, Winnie Sasyk and Cora Barry.

WWI auxiliary donates to funds

Veterans of World War I, Madison Barracks 34 and Auxiliary, resumed their meetings last week with a noon potluck dinner at the VFW Hall. Separate business sessions were conducted by Commander John Winklemeyer and Auxiliary President Georgia Butler.

Auxiliary members agreed to donate to the March of Dimes and Multiple Sclerosis funds.

Mrs. Butler reported on a visit to Alton State Hospital, where several members took games and prizes to entertain the hospitalized veterans.

She read a "thank you" note from the Senior Citizen's Council in response to a folding table donated by the auxiliary for use at the center. A 4th District meeting will be held Jan. 19 at Jerseyville, Mrs. Butler said.

During the meeting, the charter was draped for a deceased member, Mrs. Elizabeth Bergrath.

All circles at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church were reorganized this month.

Each member brought a sample of her favorite hobby and discussed the preparation of the item.

State road deaths down 408 to 1,961

A total of 408 fewer persons died in Illinois highway accidents in 1974 than in the preceding year, according to Illinois Law Enforcement Director Harvey N. Johnson Jr. Provisional state police reports show that 1,961 persons were killed in traffic accidents in 1974, compared to 2,369 deaths in 1973.

Johnson said the national 55 miles per hour speed limit and increased patrol by the state police helped reduce the Illinois highway death toll.

Speeding violations were issued to 129,165 automobile drivers in 1974, a 50.7 per cent increase over the 85,727 written in 1973.

Truckers encountered a 61 per cent increase in speeding violations for a total of 24,983 arrests.

The total increase in tickets written for both cars and trucks was up 52.2 per cent. And the increase in arrests from driving while intoxicated increased by 34.7 per cent, from 2,929 in 1973 to 3,946.

During 1974, state police were instructed by Gov. Dan Walker to conserve energy. As a result, the force consumed five million fewer gallons of gasoline and still had a better than one-third increase in all areas of enforcement, Johnson said.

Five million gallons of gasoline at 40 cents a gallon accounts for a savings of $200,000, he added.

Commendation for supply cost saving

Word came this week from Seoul, Korea, of the presentation of an award from the U. S. Department of the Army, given posthumously to Mrs. Marilee M. Wade, who died in 1973.

Her husband, James Wade, formerly of Granite City, received the presentation, which consisted of a citation and a monetary award. Mrs. Wade had worked in the Eighth Army library for ten years.

The citation reads in part, "Mrs. Marilee M. Wade is officially commended for the astuteness with which Mrs. Wade detected an action whereby a government-contracted firm overcharged the government by giving a lower discount than that listed in the Federal Supply Schedule and in bringing this matter to the attention of a government representative."

"While the government lost considerable prior to the discovery, Mrs. Wade's efforts early in the contract year, deterred further loss."

"Her evidence provided the government adequate proof with which it is currently negotiating for repayment prior to court action. Such exemplary action on the part of a federal employee is in the best tradition of government service and merits the deep appreciation of the Department of the Army."

The presentation was made by Major General William Webb, acting chief of staff to General Richard Stillwell, Eighth Army commander.

Also present at the presentation were Mrs. Wade's two sons, Adam and John Wade. James Wade, a composer and writer, has made his home in Seoul for the past 14 years. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wade, 2515 Madison Ave.

Dr. Wilkins to advise Rotary

Dr. George T. Wilkins was the guest speaker at the Madison Rotary Club meeting Wednesday at the Madison Recreation Center.

He volunteered his services to help the Rotary Club obtain medical services for the Madison and Venice areas.

Dr. Wilkins, a former Madison resident in his youth, discussed with club changes in the medical profession taking place. He noted that about 44 per cent of students now getting into medical schools are women or minority group members. He compared this with about 2 per cent 15 years ago.

Dr. Wilkins said there is a real shortage in general practitioners as the medical students today are specializing. The reason for specialization Dr. Wilkins pointed out is that a general practitioner is called out at all hours of the night, frequently has poorer working conditions and makes much less money than the specialist. This makes the field of general practice far less attractive.

Dr. Wilkins told the club that he feels regulations eventually will help ease this problem by controlling how many medical students may specialize and in what fields.

Dr. Wilkins predicted that in the future everyone will fall under some type of a national health care plan in which the citizen will make a regular monthly payment to pay for all health services.

Truck stolen, found damaged

A truck containing about $3,000 worth of mechanic's tools was stolen from the home of Sharon Bazzell, 2535 E. 26th St., it was reported at 11:30 p.m. Thursday.

Two hours later, officers found the truck at 31st Street and Edwardsville Road, but the tools, a battery and a chrome bumper had been stolen.

The truck also was severely damaged and the windshield had been broken out.

Tax filing now means early refunds

Central and Southern Illinois taxpayers expecting tax refunds will receive them much sooner if they file their returns now, Ira S. Loeb, district director of Internal Revenue for Central and Southern Illinois, said today.

"If you file now, there's a good chance you'll receive your refund in four to five weeks," he pointed out. "If you file later, you may have to wait as long as eight weeks," he added.

"January is a relatively slow month at IRS Service Centers," he explained, "which means returns can be processed and refunds issued faster than later in the filing period."

"During late March and April, however," said Loeb, "returns come in at an accelerated rate and the processing cycle takes longer, which delays refunds."

"So if you want that refund fast, file early," Loeb advised. "After all, it's your money."

Taxpayers also can speed the processing of their return by using the pre-addressed label and the special envelope included in the tax package they received in the mail, the IRS spokesman said.

"Another tip I can offer taxpayers," Loeb said, "is to give some thought now to setting up a record-keeping system for next year. You'd be amazed at how much this facilitates filing a return."

Since taxpayers cannot file their returns until they have received all W-2 statements of earnings forms, he also urged employers to issue these forms as early as possible before the Jan. 31 deadline.

He also asked banks and savings and loan associations to issue interest and dividend statements to their depositors as early as possible.

Items were thrown around the rear of the store and a counter was ransacked.

Taken were curling irons, brushes, hair pieces, tweezers, makeup, scissors, two men's rings, six ladies' rings and a pendant.

3 hurt as car leaves street

Three persons were injured when the auto of Paul Ramsey, 21, of 2252a Grand Ave., went out of control Thursday in the 1800 block of Madison Avenue, damaged a catch basin, broke down a utility pole, a fire plug and a no parking sign and then came to rest against another utility pole.

Ramsey and two passengers in his car were hurt and were taken by police to St. Elizabeth Hospital where all were released after treatment and x-rays.

Ramsey, who was charged with reckless driving, suffered a hematoma to the left side of his forehead and abrasions and hematoma to his left knee and left leg.

Robin Wilbur, 25, of 2617 Iowa St., was treated for abrasions to his left leg, and Steve Niesporek, 21, of 2608 Iowa St., sustained abrasions to his forehead, which struck the auto's windshield.

He had been in ill health five months and hospitalized two weeks. He was born in Velpen, Ind.

Mr. Lindsey was a former Madison Police Chief during the late 1930's, and also was employed as a construction worker for 18 years, working through the Operating Engineers Local. He retired in 1963.

A member of the Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307, Mr. Lindsey also belonged to the Disabled American Veterans organization, the Last Mans Club and Veterans of World War I, Barracks 34. New win for South debaters

Granite City High School South placed first in debate sweepstakes at the 13th annual invitational Belleville West Speech and Debate Tournament during the weekend.

The competition attracted 800 speech and debate students from Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky and Oklahoma.

In the championship debate division, Mike Siebert and Kim Hunt placed third in a field of 40 teams. The junior varsity team of Susan Hunsinger, Pat Hay, Brian Konzen and Nancy Weil also placed third.

The win-loss record of the entire debate squad compiled points for the top honor. The debaters won seven trophies. They are directed by Ronald Pennell.

South High School's individual events speech team earned sixth place honors, competing against over 40 schools at the same tournament.

Winnie Freedman and Annette Tarpoff captured first place in impromptu duet acting and Lorna Reinhardt and Winnie Freedman placed fourth in humorous duet acting.

Semi-finalists at the contest were Larry Burns in humorous interpretation, Larry Rabon in extemporaneous speaking, Sidney Pinkerton and Diane Scrum in oratorical declamation.

Barney Hans dies

The funeral was this morning at St. Dismas Catholic Church, Florissant, with burial at St. Boniface Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Faces 3 charges

John W. Perdue, 21, of 31 Mikel Drive, Arlington Heights, was charged with resisting arrest, illegal possession of what was believed to be cannabis and parking too far from the curb after Madison police alleged finding his car parked in the middle of the street at 10th Street and Washington Avenue in Madison at 2:20 a.m. Saturday.

Officers alleged Perdue was asleep in the auto and when they awakened him, he swung his fist at a policeman. He was pulled from the auto and collapsed to the street, police reported.

As they were booking him at the Madison Police Department, officers alleged finding a silver container with what was believed to be marijuana inside.

Radiant Heat from the ceiling

A discussion of radiant Electric Ceiling Cable

Electric cable built into the ceiling is one of the many types of electric heat available today.

Radiant electric ceiling cable can't be seen or heard and uses no space in the room. And it has no moving parts.

Heat from ceiling cable is like that of the sun: it radiates warmth directly to people.

It can also provide room-by-room thermostat control. This means you can select the exact temperature you prefer for each room.

Installation of radiant ceiling cable in a new home can simplify construction by eliminating ductwork and chimney.

Electric ceiling heat is also available in radiant panels, which work on the same principle as electric cable.

Before deciding on any type of electric heat, get expert advice on the type of system that's best suited to your needs. This help is available at no charge from Illinois Power's Energy Use Representative.
